

Number	Title	Description	Category	Mode
OL 1000	Introduction to World Campus	This course has been designed to provide you with an introductory look at the process by which a World Campus program and course are developed and your vital role in providing students with a world class education.	Professional Practice	Self-Directed 4 Weeks
OL 1100 Coming Soon!	Conducting Research with your Online Students	This course helps faculty plan how to engage undergraduate students in research in a variety of ways.	Professional Practice	Cohort 4 Weeks
OL 1200	OL Teaching Supervision Apprentice	The Apprentice Online Teaching Program places you in an instructor-led, cohort OL course similar to OL 4500 you completed last fall. You have the opportunity to shadow an OL Instructor, lead a discussion forum, and assess an assignment, just as you would do teaching an online academic class.	Professional Practice	Cohort 4-5 Weeks
OL 1250	OL Teaching Supervision Refresher	Refresher Faculty “shadow” the OL Instructor and may help with discussion management or with assignment feedback in order to put into practice effective online teaching skills. OL Instructors and Refresher Faculty will coordinate according to a rubric and guidelines.	Professional Practice	Cohort 4-5 Weeks
OL 1300	OL Teaching Practicum	In 2017, we plan to launch a pilot OL instructor evaluation program to provide you an authentic evaluation process and specific feedback on your OL teaching. We hope you will join us in the conversation and collaboration to design this process.	Professional Practice	Cohort
OL 2000	Essentials of Online Teaching	The new OL 2000 provides you with a solid foundation to practice effective online teaching and replaces the previous version of OL 2000 within the prior Faculty Development curriculum. Furthermore, if you have not taken OL 2700 in that prior curriculum, OL 2000 now also combines the content of that course into this newly developed one, now offered in Canvas.	Instructional Practice	Cohort 5 Weeks
OL 2050	Essentials of Online Teaching for Graduate Students	The Graduate Online Teaching Certificate combines an online course and other activities to provide instructors with a solid foundation to practice effective online teaching. It is designed as a basic starting point to embark on the Faculty Development Learning Map.	Instructional Practice	Cohort 5 Weeks
OL 2100	Introduction to Canvas	OL 2100 is a self-paced course designed to build faculty competency in using many features of Penn State’s Learning Management System (LMS), Canvas.	Instructional Practice	Self-Directed 4 Weeks
OL 2150 Coming Soon!	Canvas Hands On	OL 2150 builds on concepts covered in OL 2100 and focuses on hands-on training for those who are developing courses in Canvas.	Instructional Practice	Cohort TBD

Number	Title	Description	Category	Mode
OL 2300 Coming Soon!	Teamwork in Online Teaching and Learning	This module is designed to help you work with teams in both face-to-face and online courses. Regardless of what type of course you teach, you should find helpful information within this course regarding the formation, facilitation and performance of student teams.	Instructional Practice	Cohort 3 Weeks
OL 3000	Supporting Accessibility for Online Learners	OL 3000 (previously OL 1800) consists of six scenarios that guide you through processes that support student accessibility to online learning.	The Learner and Learning	Self-Directed 4 Weeks
OL 3100	Teaching the Adult Learner	OL 3100 (previously OL 1600) provides a basic understanding of the adult learner and assist instructors with effective teaching methodologies.	The Learner and Learning	Self-Directed 4 Weeks
OL 3200	Serving the Military and Veteran Student	This course (previously OL 1700) leads you through several scenarios in order to acculturate you to the conditions of the military student. Issues such as the structure of the military, language, what to expect from students in the military, and the support available at Penn State.	The Learner and Learning	Self-Directed 4 Weeks
OL 3300 Coming Soon!	Teaching the International Student	This course orients faculty to specific characteristics and needs of international students online.	The Learner and Learning	Cohort 4 Weeks
OL 3400	Online Course Design	OL 3400 (previously OL 4000) is designed to assist participants in the authoring, design and development of an online course. This course will cover a wide variety of content that will assist you in the successful authoring of an online course.	The Learner and Learning	Cohort 4 Weeks
OL 3500 Coming Soon!	Gamification in Online Teaching and Learning	Games and gamification techniques can actively engage your students in course content and activities. This course will prepare you to create your own vision of how to utilize games and gamification techniques, as well as provide you with tools to assist you in realizing your vision.	The Learner and Learning	Cohort 4 Weeks